

Christianity. But the woman was created and sent down to earth as a punishment, as a punishment, and men have been trying to get even with women ever since. Women need to wake up and seize the power that you have and use the power that you have. I think I've discussed Lysistrata on the floor before, in the old days, way back there in the days of Greece and Rome. Senator Langford is not here right now, but I could get a nod from her because we were there. I mean, we were there, we were middle aged then and we remember this, but wars were going on and we used to talk about it. I'd say, Lorraine, how can we stop these wars? She said, Ernie, I just don't know, and at that time her voice wasn't quite as deep, but she said, Ernie, I just don't know and I said, I don't either, but then some of the other women got together and they said, you know what, we're tired of our young men dying so we're going to say that no man can be intimate with the women until the war is stopped, no man. And the men ignored it. They're just talking like women always do, chauvinist then, too, they were like that all the time, Senator Smith. You see, they can't keep a thought in their mind long enough to remember at the end of the thought what they started out trying to think about at the beginning of the thought, but they made a mistake and these women remembered, and when the man came drunk, if he's drunk, or dressed up in his nice clothes, got perfume on, got his body odor taken care of so he doesn't come in smelling like a goat even though he is going to act like one and said, let me come in. And she said, not by the smoothness of my chinny chin chin. And he huffed and he puffed and he huffed and he puffed and he got nowhere, and when all the men saw all the women were serious, Senator Robak, the war stopped.

SPEAKER BARRETT: One minute.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Just like that. Women, you all could stop the injustices in this world and I know it's a heavy burden to put on you, but you have heavy burdens grievous to be borne right now, so think about what you can do. Mother Nature, a woman, nature characterizes a woman. You know how Mother Nature could have stopped the war in Vietnam if she wanted to? Give everybody diarrhea for two days or constipation for a week. That war is over. If you've got the most sophisticated tanks and armored weapons, troop carriers, you know how Mother Nature can stop that? Send about six inches of rain in three minutes. They go nowhere, bogged down in the mud. See what Mother Nature could do if she wanted to. Women
